Whos Hiding Baby Walker

Every page features a baby discovering an animal which is hidden behind a flap. Toddlers are highly interested in babies, animals, and hide-and-seek and this book has all 3. It is also sturdy unlike some other flimsy flip books and has babies of various ethnicities and both girls and boys, which is nice to see.

Who's Hiding requires readers to look closely at each spread to note which of 18 characters is hiding, crying, sleeping, angry etc. Amazingly, when all else is removed, even pairs of eyes on a black page manage to convey individuality. For the very young, but older children will enjoy this as a game.

A healthy baby has been born after developing in its mother's liver instead of in the womb. Reports from South Africa say Nhlahla, whose name means "luck" in Zulu, is only the fourth baby ever to survive such a pregnancy. In all, there have only been 14 documented cases of a child developing in this way.
